BOSTON BRAVES ARE NOW THE WORLD'S CHAMPIONS

The Fourth Game of the Series Goes to the Braves By a Score of 3 to 1.

NEW WORLD'S SERIES RECORD HAS BEEN ESTABLISHED

THE FIRST TIME IN THE HISTORY OF THE FINAL GAME WHEN THE WINNING TEAM WON FOUR STRAIGHT GAMES

Boston, Oct. 13.—The Boston National League club today completed the most sensational record in modern baseball history by defeating the Philadelphia Americans in the fourth and final game of the world's series at Fenway Park, 3 to 1.

Beginning with their rush from last place in the senior league in the middle of July, the Braves have broken traditions and records with speed and abandon. They emerged late today champions of the world leaving a trail of startling surprises and upsets in their wake.

Last and far from the least of their accomplishments was the overthrow in four consecutive games of the world-famous baseball machine of Connie Mack, with its hundred thousand dollar infield, home run heroes and corps of skillfully blended veteran and youthful pitching stars. Tonight the new champions, gathered under the management of George Stallings, are celebrating their ascent to the championship while the wreck of the Athletics baseball juggernaut is bound for home, stunned and stupefied.

Unexpected as was the defeat, the Mackmen took it in sportsmanlike spirit, praising the winners and offering no excuses. In fact, none is available, for the Bostonians outplayed their more experienced opponents in every game and department of play. The best that could be said of the Athletics by their warmest admirers was that the team, neither collectively nor as individuals, appeared to play in the manner shown in previous world's series.

New World's Series Record. To crush completely and decisively the great combination which has represented Philadelphia in the American League in recent years is honor enough for any rival baseball club, but the Braves, in their youthful ardor and speed, did even better for they established a new world's series record by winning in succession the four games necessary to clinch the title.

Not since the National Commission assumed charge of these annual inter-league contests in 1905 has this feat been accomplished until today. Several clubs have won four out of five games, however, and in the early days of the Temple Cup and National League versus American Association straight victories were chronicled.

Athletics Made Brave Fight.

The Athletics fought doggedly until the end, and even late in the game of today their adherents, who had made them two to one favorites in the wagering before the opening contest, confidently believed they would start a batting rally that would bring about at least a momentary check in the Braves' headlong run. The Mackmen's famous punch, however, appeared to be gone. The new champions were first to score and, except for half an inning when the score was tied, held the lead until the end.

Captain Johnny Evers scored the initial run. He opened the fourth session by working Shawkey for a pass; advanced to second on Connolly's infield out, moved to third on Whitted's single, and scored on Schmidt's infield out.

Score Tied in the Fifth. The Athletics tied the score in the fifth inning when Barry singled, took second on Schang's out, and scored on Shawkey's double. Nothing daunted, the Braves came right back in their half of the same inning and won the game with two additional runs, both made after two were out. Rudolph singled to center, took third on Moran's double to left and both came home when Evers singled over second. The Athletics appeared to lose heart and never seriously threatened in the remaining sessions at bat.

The Winning Clubs. The world's series of 1914 was the tenth between the pennant winners of the two major leagues since the National Commission, the highest court of baseball, took charge of the annual championship battle in 1905. Today's victory of the Braves brings about a tie for inter-league honors, since American League and National League clubs have won five championship pennants. The American League victories and the clubs that won them follow:

1906 Chicago.
1910 Philadelphia.
1911 Philadelphia.
1912 Boston.
1913 Philadelphia.
The National League triumphs were won:
1905 New York.
1907 Chicago.
1908 Chicago.
1909 Pittsburgh.
1914 Boston.

Connie Mack, the Athletics' leader, is the only manager who has won three world's championships and he appears to have stumbled over the mystic fourth just as Managers McGraw, Jennings and Chance have failed to win four league pennants in a row.

Final Game Not Exciting. The final game was the least exciting of the series. There were few brilliant features that are not seen in games during the league season. Maranville made a great stop and throw on a hard hit ball by Collins, and Mann brought cheers on a fine running catch in the outfield.

The batting also was of the ordinary kind. Whitted got two singles. Moran made a double and Evers, Schmidt and Rudolph each got a base hit. Seven of the ten men in the game for the former world's champions made a hit. Those failing to connect were Murphy, Schang and Pennock. The latter was at bat only once. The hits made by Walsh and Shawkey were two base two base drives.

Rudolph Strikes Out Seven. Rudolph struck out seven men, his victims being Oldring, Collins, Walsh, Barry, Shawkey and Schang, the latter twice.

There were but three strikeouts against Boston—Evers, Schmidt and Gowdy, falling victims to Pennock's fast curves. Shawkey gave two bases on balls in the five innings he pitched and pennock also gave two. Rudolph gave one base on balls and made one wild pitch.

Some Comparisons.

The new champions excelled the Athletics in hitting, but not in fielding. Boston made a total of 16 runs in the four games, 33 hits for a total of 36 bases, and four errors. The Athletics gathered only six runs, made 22 hits for a total of 31 bases and three errors. Boston played one errorless game and the Athletics two. Today's contest was the first in the last four world's series in which both teams played without error.

Evers made seven singles in the series. Gowdy had six hits for a total of 14 bases. Schmidt made five hits. Baker made four hits in the four games. Murphy three, Collins three, Schang two, McInnis two and Strunk two.

Congratulate the Braves. Despite the rather mediocre play of the final game, the enthusiasm of the thousands of spectators furnished a thrilling climax when the last Athletic was put out and championship honors were assured for the Braves. Cheering throngs piled out of the stands and bleachers and rushed across the field to the Boston bench, but the Mackmen were he dugout and were shaking hands and congratulating their late opponents before the first of the fans reached the scene. Once the crowd gathered force, the police had difficulty in holding it in check. Gowdy, Maranville, Evers and other heroes of the series were lifted on the fans' shoulders while a roar of applause went up that could be heard on Boston Commons.

The royal rosters brigade formed and with the band and its Indian-clad leaders at the head, marched around the field cheering the empty benches where but a few minutes ago the Mackmen had conferred on the last bit of baseball strategy, and then joined the thousands paying homage to the Braves. Mayor Curley, President Gaffney and Manager Stallings all made short speeches in response to the cheers.

Weather conditions were not as good as on preceding days. The temperature had taken a sharp drop overnight and players and fans alike to find the tang of autumn in the air and conditions more suitable for football than baseball.

Division of the Spoils. Because of the shortness of the series, the club owners and National Commission divide a smaller sum than in any world's series since 1910. The attendance at today's game was 34,363 and the receipts $62,254.3. Of this sum the players received $33,832.62; the club owners $22,555.08 and the National Commission $6,263.30.

Total attendance for the series was 111,000, receipts $225,739; players' share $121,900.94; each club's share $40,632.58 and the National Commission's proportion $22,567. As winners the Boston players receive sixty per cent of $121,900.94, or $73,140.56, while the Athletics, as losers, get $48,760.38.

Of the Boston club twenty-six players are eligible to share in the prize money (giving each man $2,813.10 should the money be divided equally). Of the Athletics, twenty-four players are entitled to divide the losers' end, which would give each Mackman $2,031.68 on a share and share alike basis. The players of neither club have, as yet, notified the National Commission just how the money will be divided. The players receive less money than has fallen to their lot since the series of 1910. Each of the four umpires receives $1,000, the money coming from the National Commission's percentage of the profits.

Burned with grief and looking to God alone for consolation, we express the gratitude of our hearts for words of comfort and the many helping hands from friends and relatives in this our hour of greatest affliction, the death of a beloved wife and mother. The sweet song service, the ministers thoughts, so tenderly expressed and the beautiful flowers, caused us to feel that the harmonies of heaven were being realized on earth.
